

rubies' worth of his cloth at the commencement of the war for the Manchurian army, and since then he had seen the same cloth being sold in Moscow shops.

Grand Duke Serge angrily demanded an apology from the plain spoken M. Morozoff, and said if he did not receive it he would give his passport and be compelled to quit Russia. M. Morozoff refused to apologize, and he received his passport.

Before leaving he gave instructions that all his factories should be closed, thus throwing 6,000 employees out of work.

At this point the government intervened and caused Grand Duke Serge to withdraw his order. Consequently M. Morozoff remains in Moscow. The event is being widely discussed.

JAPS EAGER FOR FIGHT

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 25.—Yesterday over 200 Japanese sailed on the steamer China to fight in the war.

Not one apparently had thought of personal sacrifice, yet many left their homes and business interests, after ten or twelve years' residence in California, to go back and fight for Japan. Also they pay their own passage across the ocean, or, when they could not do so, friends paid for them.

The Emperor had asked for volunteers. Over 200 young men have answered the call. Besides those who sailed, 300 more volunteers are impatiently waiting for the next steamer to Japan.

It has been said that the Mikado's government is anxious to receive Japanese in America, requesting them to call American residents home. But the call for volunteers came through the Japanese consul in this city, and no compulsion was used.

NEWSPAPER HIT BY JAP SHELLS

CHEFOO, Oct. 25.—According to news received here today the newspaper "Novi Kral" at Port Arthur is encountering all kinds of difficulty in going to press. The office is now on the line of the Japanese fire.

Ten shells struck in the immediate vicinity of the office, smashing the windows, plating the type and increasing the troubles of the editors and printers.

WILD ENTHUSIASM FOR KUROPATKIN

MUKDEN, Oct. 25.—The appointment of Kuropatkin as chief in command of all the Russian forces in the field has been received with wild enthusiasm by the troops.

Armies Within Touch.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 25.—An official dispatch from Mukden, dated October 25, states the armies are within touch and are busily fortifying their positions.

The Japanese shell the Russian positions occasionally, especially toward sunset, when they are able to see the Russian lines distinctly.

Kuropatkin reports that there was no fighting between the armies on the Sha River Monday.

Japanese Advance.

PARIS, Oct. 25.—The "Petit Parisien" reports the receipt of private telegrams from Mukden, asserting that the Japanese center has resumed the offensive and that all the Mikado's forces have been advancing since Monday.

At many points the three-quarters of a mile separates the hostile armies.

Russians Repulsed.

TOKYO, Oct. 25.—It is reported that on Saturday the Russians delivered a most determined attack upon the Japanese position at Linshupu, west of Shashan, but were repulsed.

The "Fiji" reports that on Thursday no Russian troops were inside the walls of Mukden.

The Russians recently purchased 20,000 Chinese garments. They have extensively mined the railway south of Mukden. On Friday 5,000 Russians arrived at Tamintun, southeast of Simintun, and recaptured a region that region had abandoned previous to the battle of the Sha River.

The Japanese have accumulated at Liao-Yang provisions sufficient to supply half a million troops for six months. At Yinkow, the port of Niuchwang, are food supplies and a great amount of fodder.

THROGS ATTEND THE M'QUE CASE

Many Ladies Among Number at the Trial.

2 WITNESSES GIVE EVIDENCE

Marshall Dinwiddie and Charles Skinner Tell What They Know of Mysterious Murder.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Oct. 25.—Long before the opening of the doors of the court house this morning there was a throng in waiting, among the number being many ladies. Both the southern and eastern galleries were again well filled.

J. Tinsley Coleman, one of the ablest lawyers at the Lynchburg bar, was on hand for the first time today and occupied a seat by the other counsel for the defense.

Marshall Dinwiddie was sworn and testified that when he reached the McCue residence the night of the murder he found Mrs. McCue dead and Mr. McCue lying on the lounge, suffering, as he said, from a blow on the head. Mr. McCue told him that he had rushed into the room, knocked him senseless and shot his wife; that he was standing before the chiffonier, farther from the door than his wife.

"Mrs. McCue, I suppose, had run out and had been knocked senseless. He told me he tried to reach his gun and had gotten it partly out of the case when the man took it away from him."

Prisoner Wept Bitterly.

The prisoner wept bitterly when the witness told of his visit to the coffin of his dead wife.

Mr. Dinwiddie said that McCue's undershirt was handed to him, and he in turn passed it at once to the undertaker, who immediately wrapped it up in his presence. On the occasion when the accused and children went in the room the next afternoon after the corpse had been placed in the casket, the witness could not recall who else was in the room, and the prisoner had asked to see the body of his wife.

Charles Skinner, colored, who was employed at the Moran residence, adjoining the McCue home, next took the stand. He stated he was in a servants' house just back of the Moran residence. He occupied an upstairs room, and was lying down on the bed. He heard crying and screaming two or three times before he went to the window nearest the McCue residence.

Skinner Tells His Story.

"It seemed as if some one was in distress at the McCue residence," he said. "I went back to my bed, and later I heard a shot. I then went back to the window and called to James Lewis, a colored boy, who was standing on McCue's back porch, and asked him what had happened. I then dressed and went in the McCue back yard. Several people rushed in the back gate, and somebody said, 'Look out.'"

"I then retraced my steps and went in the Moran residence to awaken Mr. Moran. The crying seemed to be the voice of a woman, but I could not tell from which room it came.

"After the shot was fired I heard no further noise at the McCue residence until I had gotten out in the alley way. He went to the window nearest the rear of the McCue residence.

AUTOMOBILE COLLIDES WITH TWO CARRIAGES

Three persons were injured, as many vehicles demolished, and one horse ran away early this morning when a twenty-horsepower automobile operated by William Campbell, of 1084 Connecticut Avenue northwest, collided with a buggy which John B. Waters was driving along the Bladensburg Road near Langdon.

Mr. Campbell was arrested by Sergeant Carlson, of the Ninth precinct station, and deposited $10 collateral for his appearance in the Police Court to answer to a charge of colliding. None of the injured persons is seriously hurt.

Waters lives in Riverdale, and was driving to Washington to attend to some business. He got an early start and reached North Langdon about 4:30 o'clock. Behind him was Mr. Steele, whose horse was also in a buggy, and his horse's head was not more than two yards behind Waters' buggy. Waters was looking out of the back of the buggy talking to Steele at the time the accident occurred.

Mr. Campbell, it is said by the police, told Sergeant Carlson that he had been out all night, taking a spin in his car, accompanied by a young woman. They rode about the city and then started for a little cross-country run. He went out

H Street northeast, and turned into the Bladensburg Road at Fifteenth Street near the car barn. The car was then going at a rate of about twenty-five miles an hour.

At Langdon the speed of the automobile was even greater than in the city. The buggy, it is said, were on the wrong side of the road, which is wide enough for three vehicles to pass one another. Mr. Campbell tried to guide his machine out of the path of the first buggy, but was unable to do so because of the high rate of speed. The front of his auto struck the horse and knocked it off its feet. The automobile then crashed into the buggy, throwing Mr. Waters out and demolishing the vehicle. The horse scrambled to his feet and ran away.

When the automobile struck Mr. Steele's vehicle all the wind was out of his front tires and the front of the machine was dented in and the head-light smashed. Steele was thrown out of his buggy and slightly injured. His horse ran away, but he jumped up and caught the animal after it had run a short distance.

The woman was hurled head foremost into a ditch on the side of the road and was found by the police. She was found to be suffering from shock, bruises about the limbs and body and a painful and disfiguring scalp wound on her forehead.

WASHINGTON GETS ST. LOUIS TURBINE

Property of Railway and Electric Company.

The Washington Railway and Electric Company announced today that the last step had been accomplished toward securing adequate power for its many interests. Negotiations have been concluded for the purchase of the new electric generating machine called the Curtis Steam Turbine which has been on exhibition at the St. Louis Exposition.

There has been the keenest competition from all sections of the country and indeed from all over the world to secure the turbine. One representative of an electric company in Melbourne, Australia, was particularly active in the bidding.

The machine has been an object of great interest to the visitors. There is none of the noise and jarring about it characteristic of the old style generators. In fact, when it is hooded, it is possible to place one's hand on it while it is running full speed, and be uncertain whether it is in motion. Several visiting electrical engineers at the Fair were deceived by the absence of noise and vibration into the belief that the machine was not running.

A sister turbine to the one just purchased has been in operation at the Potomac Electric Power Plant, of the Washington Railway and Electric Company about two months. It was installed at a total cost of about $250,000, which the officials of the company felt justified in expending because of its advantages over the old styles of generators. It has been demonstrated that the turbine develops between 30 and 35 per cent more power than the ordinary engine and generator, and occupies about a fourth of the space.

Since the General Electric Company first placed their machine on exhibition the officers of the local company have kept their eyes on it with the thought of purchasing it. Orders for turbines have poured into the offices of the company manufacturing them so that, to purchase it, the Washington Railway and Electric Company might have been obliged to wait a very long time. It therefore became advisable to get an option on the one already set up.

INTEREST CLAIMS DELAY ELECTION

Waggaman Creditors Asked to Waive Right.

Today's meeting of the creditors of Thomas E. Waggaman and their attorneys was given up to a continuance of the discussion which began yesterday afternoon.

The announcement by the referee of what claims had been allowed or disallowed, which was to have been made today, was postponed by Mr. Bradley until 1 o'clock Friday next.

"There is another question which has come up," said Mr. Bradley, "that must be settled before the vote for trustee can be taken. Many of the claims which have been filed are for the principal of the sums placed in Mr. Waggaman's hands with interest. The adding of the interest increases the amount of such claims and affects the voting rights of their holders.

"I should like to hear from attorneys who represent claimants secured on 'List No. 1' as to whether or not they would be willing to waive interest when it comes to deciding who has the right to vote, and let this question of right be governed by the amount of principal of the claims.

"If interest is waived the election can be held on Saturday, as arranged. Otherwise, when the referee has carefully over the list of claims filed, of which there are now about 1,500, and compute the interest.

"This task will delay the election of trustee at least a week. I should be glad to hear from attorneys on this question.

"The interest, I may add, will not amount to a great sum in any case."

Attorney Taggart then suggested that the attorneys interested in claims secured by notes on "List No. 1" should meet and appoint a committee to take the list and go over it carefully, ascertain the value of the securities on it, and report to the referee.

Personally, said Mr. Taggart, he was of the opinion that the question of the value of the securities should be settled by priority in time.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

ATTENTION DEMOCRATS! There will be a flag raising and good speaking at the Maryland House, 209 Seventh Street northwest, Thursday, OCTOBER 27, 8 p. m. D. B. DRANE, chairman. oct26-27

ATTENTION, DEMOCRATS.

In less than five weeks the election will be held for President and Vice President and the control of the House of Representatives. The present conditions bode success of the Democratic cause if united and enthusiastic efforts are made. It is apparent that to overcome the position of the Republican party, entrenched in office and with the financial advantages due to such position, the legitimate campaign expenses of the Democratic party must of necessity be great.

Friends of Democracy and citizens who desire the election of Alton B. Parker and Henry G. Davis can in nowise give more substantial aid than in financial assistance. I earnestly appeal to all Democrats in the District of Columbia to make such donations to the cause as they may be able to do. By so doing they will have the satisfaction, if we are successful, knowing that they contributed toward restoring the National Government to a harbor of safety and which for so many years added to the healthy growth and prosperity of the United States.

Contributions by mail or in person will be received by me and proper receipts be given therefor. JAMES L. NORRIS, Democratic National Committee, of the District of Columbia, Norris Building, No. 501 F Street northwest. oct-26
